Speaking to Water and Creating Community: Civic Reflection with Pacific Islanders in Guam

The Humanities and the Legacy of Race and Ethnicity in the United States

FREE COMMUNITY CONVERSATION EVENT

WEDNESDAY, May 30, 2018 | 6 P.M.
SOMNAK BALLROOM, WESTIN RESORT GUAM

Dinner will be served

Humanities Guåhan is hosting a free COMMUNITY CONVERSATION as the culmination of our civic reflection project. This event will feature a performance by the Sons of Satawal, readings by Vicky-Lola Leon Guerrero and Dr. Emelihter Kihleng, and a chant presentation by Jay Baza Pascua. Break-out sessions will follow using the "civic reflection" model to facilitate discussion of CHamoru and Micronesian shared cultural pasts, different colonial histories that have shaped current misconceptions and divisiveness, and the need to re-imagine relationships in more positive ways for our island.

Registration through Eventbrite (<https://speakingtowater.eventbrite.com>) is required as space is limited. For more information, please contact info@humanitiesguahan.org or call 472-4460

Civic Reflection Conversations – facilitated conversations with diverse community members in small group settings – are a way to build greater understanding and awareness of the social, economic, cultural and ethnic issues that often divide the Guam community and affect the lives of all island residents.
